Accession Number: 2000.024

Collection: Washington Artillery Collection

Location: Jackson Barracks Museum, Archive 2 “The Lake” Row 40C-D

Extent: 6 shelves of material totaling 24 linear feet.

Arranged and described by: Unidentified Staff c. 1980s-2000; James Armour, Volunteer Archival Assistant, James Linn, UNO History Dept. Intern and Beverly Boyko, Archives and Collections Manager, 2015; Transcription by Judith A. Marcus, 2016, updated Boyko 2021.

Access Restrictions: There are no access restrictions to this collection.

Provenance, Acquisition and Processing: There is no associated acquisition documentation for this collection but since it contains material related to World War II, at least portions of the collection came into the possession of the Jackson Barracks Library (aka Adjutant Generals Library) sometime after 1945. An paper inventory list “WASHINGTON ARTILLERY, Document & Book Listing” (undated) lists 72 items and a digital (Word) file dating to 2000 titled “Washington Artillery Collection” documents the contents of 12 boxes of loose material. This finding aid combines the information from both lists (with occasional editorial corrections), notes missing items and adds new information based on a physical inspection of the collection as it exists in 2015. Object identification numbers were added to each bound volume and box and an associated Past Perfect record created.

Scope and Content Note

1840s-1999 (primarily late 19th century)

This collection contains paper and photo prints produced by or pertaining to Louisiana’s Washington Artillery (WA) and the Washington Artillery Association – a social organization comprised primarily of WA veterans. Late 19th century letter, minute, roll, order and account books along with World War II fire direction log books make up the bulk of the bound volumes.

Items are housed in acid-free folders in acid-free boxes or encapsulated in polyester sleeves and bound in “document book” volumes. Current bound volume binding, a replacement of the originals, was completed by Louisiana Binding Service after Hurricane Katrina in 2005. Items in undated inventory not located during 2015 re-assessment were likely destroyed by the flooding after Katrina or may be included in the folders now re-housed in archival boxes sometime in the late 1990s. Boxed material is organized chronologically although there are some inconsistencies and later additions.

Historical Note: The Washington Artillery was founded on September 7, 1838, as the Washington Artillery Company.^[4] It received its regimental flag in August 1846 after serving under Zachary Taylor in the Mexican–American War.

26 May 1861 the Unit was mustered into the American Civil War;^[5] four companies served in the Army of Northern Virginia and a fifth was in the Army of Tennessee. Elements of the Washington Artillery participated in over sixty major actions. A few notable engagements include: Battle of Antietam, Battle of Gettysburg, Battle of Shiloh, Battle of Chickamauga, Battle of Fredericksburg, First Battle of Manassas, and the Battle of Cold Harbor.

After the Civil War, it was reorganized as an independent unit called the "Louisiana Volunteer Field Artillery" where it served the United States in the occupation of Cuba. It later was called into service to protect the Mexican border in 1916. A year later it received the designation 141st Artillery. In early 1941, the 141st Field Artillery was mobilized for World War II where it earned the Presidential Unit Citation; a duplicate unit was formed, the 935th Field Artillery Battalion, with both serving in Europe and North Africa. The anti-tank batteries of the battalion were separated in mid-1941, and formed the 773rd Tank Destroyer Battalion.

Between 1959 and 1967, several sister units were combined to form the 141st Field Artillery Battalion. In 2004 through 2005 and again in 2010, the 141st FA as part of the 256th Infantry Brigade mobilized to Baghdad, Iraq, in support of Operations Iraqi Freedom and New Dawn. (Wikipedia Feb. 2017)
